Central Coast REALTOR® Elected President of State Association

SALEM, OR – The Oregon Association of Realtors have elected Amy Graham the 2014 President of the State association. Voted upon by the 115 member Board of Directors, the decision was made official at the installation conducted in Sunriver on September 26th at the 2013 Convention and Fall Governance Meetings for the Oregon Association of Realtors – a professional organization representing more than 13,000 members statewide.

Graham is the youngest president of the Oregon Association of Realtors since its inception in 1932. She was born and raised in Reedsport, Oregon and now resides in Lincoln City where she is a top producing principal broker with Prudential Taylor & Taylor.

She has been involved in her local and state association, as well as her community, her entire professional career, receiving her Broker's license in 2003 and her Principal Broker's license in 2012. She was selected as Realtor of the Year for the Lincoln County Board of Realtors that year as well. She has also earned many sales awards for her business with the company in addition to her volunteer service for the profession.

At OAR, Amy has served on the Governmental Affairs Committee since 2010, working as Chair of that group since 2012. She also serves as a member of the Oregon Realtors Political Action Committee (RPAC) Board of Trustees. Amy is a 2009 graduate of the real estate association program, Leadership Institute Northwest.

Amy's volunteer service started at the local level, including serving as President of the Lincoln County Board of Realtors in 2009-2010 and MLS Chair in 2008. In her local community, she has served on the Lincoln County Board of Economic Development, is a member of the Lincoln City Young Professionals, and volunteers for Habitat of Humanity of Lincoln County.

Amy is firmly supportive of the protection of private property rights! And she is dedicated to the Realtor family and is a supporter of the ideal of home ownership for all Americans. Wherever she goes, people know that Amy believes that "home ownership matters"!
